ABOUT KGMU

In 1870 the Maharaja of Vijaynagaram, first floated the idea of starting a Medical College in Lucknow. But the idea was watered down due to paucity of funds. In 1905 the visit of King-Emperor, George V, then Prince of Wales, inspired the idea of establishing a college to commemorate the occasion. The originator of this fine idea to commemorate the occasion was late Raja Sir Tasadduq Rasul Khan of Jehangirabad to whom Sir Harcourt Butler wrote on 1st December 1905. "It must ever be a source of pride to you to think that the first suggestion of such a movement came from you absolutely spontaneously."

ABOUT LUCKNOW

Lucknow (Lakshman puri), the dynamic capital of Uttar Pradesh, has a storied origin linked to the revered Shri Lakshman, younger brother of Lord Ram, adding a touch of divinity to its historical tapestry. Nestled near Ayodhya, the sacred city associated with the birth of Lord Ram, Lucknow shares its mythological roots with the epic Ramayana. Additionally, its proximity to Naimisharanya, an ancient forest mentioned in Hindu scriptures, further enhances Lucknow's spiritual significance. As a cultural and historical hub, the city not only embodies its mythical past but also stands as a bridge connecting the timeless tales of Ayodhya and Naimisharanya to the vibrant present. Situated on the banks of river Gomti (Aadi Ganga), it is known for its exquisite chikan kari, delectable cuisine & Level - I trauma center, Lucknow is the perfect canvas for our trauma conference.
